

HUMAINS DE JARDIN

Humains de jardin — POESIS 2 A playful performance at the Botanical Garden

Montreal, Monday July 28, 2014 - Following on the heels of the successful Les Emballés — POESIS 1, which wrapped 100 people in body bags at seven different locations around the Quartier des Spectacles, Un et un font mille is now presenting Humains de jardin — POESIS 2. This performance is being presented as a part of The Arts Put on a Show at the Garden programming being held on August 10 at the Shrub Gardens area of the Montreal Botanical Garden.

The Humains de jardin — POESIS 2 project is a fun and lighthearted reflection on how we fit into the Earth, nature and the circle of life. Thirty-odd people will be planted in the Shrub Garden's beds. With feet rooted firmly in the ground they will dance, sing, read, meditate, listen to music, talk on the phone and more. They will be living their lives - fixed into place.

The men and women of the show are a living exhibit with their daily lives on display like the Botanical Garden themselves. They are funny, fragile and touching and they beg the question: How do we fill our lives? What part do we play in the more or less natural order of things?

Over the course of the exhibit, children and adults alike can entertain themselves by looking for the people living in the garden beds, taking photos and interacting with them.
